

Understanding Heirlooms

A Workshop Exploring your Family Objects

January 14, 1 - 4 PM

At Stenton

Workshop led by:

Kory Berrett

Mr. Berrett is a Fellow of the American Institute for Conservation with an extensive background in general objects conservation that includes institutional positions with The Smithsonian Institution, and with the Winterthur Museum / University of Delaware Art Conservation Program.

Dr. Patricia Keller

Curatorial Consultant and Research Specialist with Berrett Conservation Studio. Dr. Keller was awarded her PhD from the University of Delaware / Winterthur Museum Program. She has extensive experience in object connoisseurship, museum administration, exhibition research and organization, and collections management.

Join us at Stenton on Saturday, January 14th for a fun and informative workshop about how to incorporate family heirlooms into genealogical research to learn more about your family history. This will be a three part program including an overview of using objects to do genealogical research, how to "read" objects and use what you learn in your family research, and how to properly care for your heirlooms at home. Guests are encouraged to bring their own heirlooms to the workshop to learn more about their specific objects. Refreshments will be provided. Cost is $15 Per Person, $10 for Friends of Stenton. Spaces are limited. Please call 215-329-7312 to make your reservation or return the form below.
